COVID-19 infections running high in some counties

Local counties still low but neighbors are on rise

BY THE COURIER STAFF

While the number of COVID-19 cases remains low in local counties, the virus is spreading at higher levels in nearby Jefferson County, Kentucky, and some counties in Indiana.

On Monday, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention showed Jefferson County, Kentucky, at "Red" for a high community spread. Last week, the county that includes Louisville reported 2,297 new cases, an increase from 1,893 the previous week.

On Monday, 34 Indiana counties — including Clark, Scott, Floyd, Crawford, Harrison, Washington, Lawrence, Jackson, Bartholomew, Shelby and Rush counties — were listed on the CDC data map as having a "high" community risk for spreading COVID-19, while another 39 Indiana counties were listed as "medium" risk.

Because of the high spread in Jefferson County, Kentucky, the Associated Press announced Kentucky's largest school district — Jefferson County Public Schools — will require universal masking on school property.

The change began Monday and will last until the county comes out of the red, media outlets reported. It comes a little more than two weeks before classes resume in Louisville on Aug 10. Everyone, regardless of vaccination status, will be required to wear a mask on district property or on school buses.

District policy automatically requires universal masking whenever the county has a high level of COVID-19 community spread. When community spread in Jefferson County, Kentucky, drops JCPS said masks will become optional.

LOCAL SPREAD STILL LOW

Meanwhile, community spread in Jefferson County, Indiana, remains low at this time. On Friday, the Indiana Department of Health reported 28 new cases of COVID-19 in the last week. Additionally, the CDC shows low

Local scout completes Eagle Scout project in nick of time

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

A big sigh of relief came over Gavin McMahon's face recently as he delivered two American flag retirement boxes to director of Jefferson County Emergency Management Troy Morgan. After 100 hours of planning and construction, the project was done, and not a moment too soon.

The retirement boxes were the final step for the Madison Consolidated High School senior and member of Scouting BSA Troop 717 as he wraps up the prestigious rank of Eagle Scout. Scouting BSA rules say that a scout must complete their project by their 18th birthday, which happened to be Thursday.

Residential treatment subcommittee extends search for coordinator

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Residential Treatment Facility Subcommittee's hopes of having a new Community Coordinator hired in time for Thursday's meeting fell short when additional applicants showed interest in the job and the search was extended.

At the group's meeting in June, Jason Cranney, the county's Court Service Director, noted that two interviews were scheduled and that could lead to a hire for the position. However, Commissioner Ron Lee reported Thursday that two more applications were received, so more interviews are scheduled for this week.

Once the Community Coordinator is hired, that person will begin coordinating a needs assessment and researching the best course for seeking grant

Ivy Tech Madison's Dodge promoted to statewide workforce, careers post

BY BOB DEMAREE

Molly Dodge will begin a new position with Ivy Tech Community College next month, assuming the role of senior vice president of workforce and careers, after serving as chancellor of Ivy Tech Madison since October 2017.

Molly Dodge

In her new role, Dodge will work with employers across the state to ensure the college has the programs and capacity to fill the state's workforce pipeline. Additionally, she will oversee the college's partnership with the Indiana Department of Corrections.

"I am excited to work with President (Sue) Ellspermann and our faculty and staff to further enhance the College's offerings to quickly skill up Hoosiers with shorter-term microcredentials, certificates and associate degrees that seamlessly transfer to our four-year partners," Dodge said. "Working with the Commission for Higher Education and the Indiana General Assembly will make Indiana the best state to compete successfully in the global economy."

Dodge will officially begin her new role Aug. 8. Ivy Tech has begun recruitment to fill the position of interim chancellor for the Madison campus with that person to start Aug. 8, according to Jennifer Hashem, Ivy Tech's executive director of public affairs, who added announcement of that person will be made once the selection is made.

"It is truly bittersweet to leave the extraordinary students, staff and faculty at Ivy Tech Madison for this new

Cleaveland takes over leadership at Madison Salvation Army

BY BOB DEMAREE

There's new leadership at the Madison Salvation Army with Janelle Cleaveland posted from Iowa to the downtown Madison center earlier this month.

"I'm excited to be here. I can't wait to see what God has for me, and how he's going to work in this place and in this community," said Cleaveland.

Capt. Janelle Cleaveland

She replaces Captains Justin and Stephanie Hartley, a husband and wife team that has have moved on to an appointment at the Kroc Center in Green Bay, Wisconsin. The Hartleys, who have three sons, had come to Madison during the summer of 2019. Their farewell at Madison was June 26 with Cleaveland's first official day on July 3.

Cleaveland was born in Wisconsin but grew up in Clinton, Iowa. She attended Carroll University where she earned a bachelor's degree in business marketing and public relations, and worked a couple of summers at the Salvation Army summer camp during her college years.

"That's when God called me to be a Salvation Army officer," she said, noting that after graduating from Carroll, she went to the College for Officers Training (CFOT) in Chicago, and while there got a master's degree in theology and Christian ministry at Olivet Nazarene University.

Her first appointment with the Salvation Army was a six year stint in Des Moines, Iowa. She then served a year in Mason City, Iowa, and the last five years in Newton, Iowa. "It's never easy to leave," she noted. "You become invested with the people and build relationships. It's not easy but it always works out."

Cleaveland noted that even as she's new to Madison she's found it helpful that she knows many of the past Madison officers — Captains Matt and Emily Phelps (2010-2015), Captains Vinal and Brenna Lee (2015-2019) and the Hartleys, who were able to tell her about

Filing begins Wednesday for 6 school board seats

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Filing for non-partisan board seats for Madison Consolidated and Southwestern Jefferson County schools begin Wednesday with the deadline set for noon on Friday, Aug. 26.

Madison Consolidated Schools will have three positions to elect — two of them are in District 2 (must live in precincts 4-1, 4-1A, 4-2, 4-3, 5-1 or 5-2) and one in District 3 (must live in precincts 1-1, 1-2, 2-1, 2-2 or 3rd ward).

District 2 is currently represented by Jodi Yancey and Lori Slygh. District 3 is currently represented by Larry Henry. Both Yancey and Henry were elected in the 2018 general election while Slygh was appointed in November of 2020 following the resignation of Rob Kring, who had also been elected in the 2018 general election.

Southwestern Jefferson County Schools will also have three seats to elect — one in Hanover Township (must live in precincts Hanover 2 or Hanover 2A), one in Saluda Township (must live in Saluda precinct) and one in Smyrna Township (must live in Smyrna precinct). Those positions are currently held by John Jones in Hanover Township, Rick Stockdale in Saluda Township and Lacie Deputy in Smyrna Township.

Forms for the school board offices are available on the Jefferson County Government website at www.jeffersoncounty.in.gov/376/Voter-Registration-Office

In addition, voter registration is currently open and will be until Tuesday, Oct. 11. Early voting will begin Oct. 12 at satellite locations that include the Jefferson County Courthouse, the Jefferson County Public Safety Center and the Hanover Community Building. The general election is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 8.

community spread in neighboring Switzerland County with six new cases reported in the last week.

Students return to Southwestern Jefferson County Schools on Aug. 3 while students return of Madison Consolidated and Prince of Peace school on Aug. 10.

COVID-19 vaccination appointments are currently available at the Jefferson County Health Department on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Call 812-273-1942 to schedule an appointment.

In Kentucky, 80 counties are now listed with high community spread. Of the remaining 40 counties in Kentucky, seven are scored at low community level, while the rest are at medium.

Among those with high spread in Kentucky are nearby Gallatin and Henry counties as well as, Kenton, Boone, Grant, Harrison, Scott, Clark, Fayette, Woodford, Madison, Jessamine, Garrard, Mercer, Boyle, Lincoln, Rockcastle, Washington, Marion, Nelson, Spencer, Bullitt, Shelby, Metcalfe, Cumberland, Monroe and Barren counties.

Meanwhile, Carroll County and Trimble County each continue have low community spread with 19 new cases reported over the past week in Carroll County and 10 in Trimble County based on most recent data.

TRIMBLE BOOSTER CLINIC

On Thursday and Friday, the Trimble County Health Department will be among health departments throughout Kentucky participating in the Kentucky COVID-19 Vaccine Extravaganza in which gift cards will be given out — while supplies last — with support from the Kentucky Association of Health Plans (KAHP) and Foundation for a Healthy Kentucky.

The COVID-19 and booster clinic at the Trimble County Health Department, 138 Miller Lane, Bedford, will be 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m on Saturday.

SCOUT

McMahon said with a large smile. "Nothing like bringing it down to the wire."

Like all scouts, McMahon began looking for an Eagle Scout project before he even reached the rank of Life Scout, the final rank before Eagle. But several prospective projects fell through leaving McMahon scrambling for an idea.

As it turned out, Morgan had a fantastic idea. Taking a page from memories of his mother, Morgan really wanted a way for individuals to drop off old and damaged flags that did not involve going to either the American Legion or VFW Post.

"My mother was always trying to find a place to drop off flags because she wasn't comfortable going to those places because they were also bars," Morgan said. "Thinking of that, I got in touch with (Troop 717 Scoutmaster) Larry Mannix who in turn got me in touch with Gavin. And it worked out great."

Working with his father Terrence, grandfather Willard Foss and fellow scouts from Troop 717, McMahon began the process of first planning, then building the boxes.

According to the United States Flag Code, Title 4, Section 8k, the flag should be retired when it is in such condition that is "no longer a fitting emblem for display" and should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning it. Troop 717 regularly holds a burning ceremony for old flags, which involves the troop solemnly placing the flags on a campfire and later recovering the grommets.

David Campbell

Troy Morgan (left), Lisa Morgan (center) and Gavin McMahon pose with the flag retirement boxes that McMahon built as his Eagle Scout project for Scouting BSA Troop 717 in Madison.

With that in mind, McMahon wanted to make sure the boxes were able to not only hold the flags, but patriotic in design. Eventually, he and his father decided on simple red boxes, about three feet high, with a blue lid complete with stars.

"We thought out putting stripes down the sides and going all out," McMahon said. "But in the end, we decided to keep it simple."

McMahon made two of the boxes and presented both to Morgan and his wife, Lisa, who were sponsors of the project. Morgan said one of the boxes will stay in the Emergency Management Agency building on Green Road and the other will go to Hanover at a yet-to-be-determined location.

"These look terrific. You did a fantastic job," Morgan said. "Congratulations."

With his project behind him, McMahon must now complete an Eagle Scout Board of Review. Once he passes that, he will become the third member of his family, joining brothers Hayden and Gabe, to earn the Eagle Scout rank and join several members of Troop 717 who have reached the rank in recent years.

COORDINATOR

funding for a residential treatment facility. "We've got to get this coordinator and get this study going," said Keith Howard, coordinator of the Health Communities Initiative of Jefferson County.

Howard is optimistic that once that is done there will be good opportunities for the county to receive funding for a residential treatment facility. He cited examples of other funding that has recently been allocated in other parts for Indiana from the Community Catalyst Grant Program including $54.8 million that was awarded among 37 grantees mostly to fund programs related to addictions and mental health.

Howard said state officials have "indicated that they will be doing these sorts of grants for awhile" because there is federal money available, particularly with funding for mental health through recent gun law legislation.

"I think we're OK with our funding as soon as we get this study done, we know what it is we're looking at, and we can put the plan together, then we can work on the funding," said Howard. "If we can put a well-documented case together, I think we'll be in real good shape."

However he said once a residential treatment facility is established there will still be more work to do. "We know that putting this facility together, once it's done and in place, it's not going to fill all our gaps. We're still going to have some missing gaps."

Jim Courter, who has been working with Lee to lead the effort for a residential treatment facility, asked about the potential to located a substance abuse program at the new Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice Center.

Lee said he has talked to both candidates for county sheriff — Democrat Tim Davis and Republican Ben Flint — and both have indicated support. "Both want addiction treatment in the jail. Both candidates are on track with what we're doing," Lee said. "So, I don't see any obstacles" with whichever one is sheriff once the new jail is completed.

Lee is hopeful about what can be achieved by the Residential Treatment Facility Subcommittee the the county's Justice Reinvestment Advisory Council (JRAC). "Everybody's got a family member who is suffering" and struggling with addiction, he said. "You want to see help. You want them to get back on their feet and get back to their families."

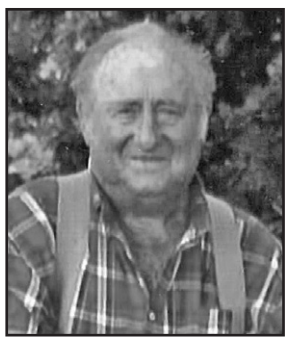
Thanks From The Family Of

Skeeter Long



Our family would like to thank everyone for their attendance at Skeeter's visitation and funeral, and for all of the beautiful flowers, cards, prayers, expressions of sympathy, and comforting words. A special thank you to Brye Welty and Lytle Welty Funeral Home for helping us in so many ways to make it through some very trying days. We also want to thank Ginger and Elaine for the special music, and Reverend Jack Couch for a very special service.

God Bless All of You

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On July 26, 2016, Hillary Clinton became the first woman to be nominated for president by a major political party at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1775, the Continental Congress established a Post Office and appointed Benjamin Franklin its Postmaster-General.

In 1847, the western African country of Liberia, founded by freed American slaves, declared its independence.

In 1863, Sam Houston, former president of the Republic of Texas, died in Huntsville at age 70.

In 1945, the Potsdam Declaration warned Imperial Japan to unconditionally surrender, or face "prompt and utter destruction." Winston Churchill resigned as Britain's prime minister after his Conservatives were soundly defeated by the Labour Party; Clement Attlee succeeded him.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman signed the National Security Act, which reorganized America's armed forces as the National Military Establishment and created the Central Intelligence Agency.

In 1953, Fidel Castro began his revolt against Fulgencio Batista with an unsuccessful attack on an army barracks in eastern Cuba. (Castro ousted Batista in 1959.)

In 1956, the Italian liner Andrea Doria sank off New England, some 11 hours after colliding with the Swedish liner Stockholm; at least 51 people died, from both vessels.

In 1971, Apollo 15 was launched from Cape Kennedy on America's fourth successful manned mission to the moon.

In 1990, President George H.W. Bush signed the Americans with Disabilities Act.

In 2002, the Republican-led House voted, 295-132, to create an enormous Homeland Security Department in the biggest government reorganization in decades.

In 2013, Ariel Castro, the man who'd imprisoned three women in his Cleveland home, subjecting them to a decade of rapes and beatings, pleaded guilty to 937 counts in a deal to avoid the death penalty. (Castro later committed suicide in prison.)

In 2020, a processional with the casket of the late U.S. Rep. John Lewis crossed the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Alabama, where Lewis and other civil rights marchers were beaten 55 years earlier. Authorities declared a riot in Portland, Oregon, after protesters breached a fence surrounding the city's federal courthouse; thousands had gathered for another night of protests over the killing of George Floyd and the presence of federal agents.

Ten years ago: The White House said President Barack Obama would not push for stricter gun laws, one day after his impassioned remarks about the need to keep assault weapons off the streets. With the Olympics Games as a backdrop, Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney held a day of meetings with Britain's most powerful people; however, Romney rankled his hosts with comments he'd made upon his arrival calling London's problems with the games' preparation "disconcerting."

Five years ago: President Donald Trump announced on Twitter that he would not "accept or allow" transgender people to serve in the U.S. military. (After a legal battle, the Defense Department approved a policy requiring most individuals to serve in their birth gender; that policy was reversed by the Biden administration, which allowed transgender people who met military standards to enlist and serve openly in their self-identified gender.) A thrill ride broke apart at the Ohio State Fair, killing an 18-year-old high school student and injuring seven others. Actor June Foray, the voice of Rocky the Flying Squirrel and hundreds of other cartoon characters, died in a Los Angeles hospital at the age of 99.

One year ago: Caeleb Dressel won his first of five gold medals in swimming at the Tokyo Olympics by leading the United States to victory in the men's 4x100-meter freestyle relay. California and New York City announced that they would require all government employees to get the coronavirus vaccine or face weekly COVID-19 testing. A relative reported that the final victim of the condo collapse in Florida had been identified, more than a month after the catastrophe that claimed 98 lives.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Robert Colbert is 91. Actor-singer Darlene Love is 81. Singer Brenton Wood is 81. Rock star Mick Jagger is 79. Movie director Peter Hyams is 79. Actor Helen Mirren is 77. Rock musician Roger Taylor (Queen) is 73. Actor Susan George is 72. Olympic gold medal figure skater Dorothy Hamill is 66. Actor Nana Visitor is 65. Actor Kevin Spacey is 63. Rock singer Gary Cherone is 61. Actor Sandra Bullock is 58. Actor-comedian Danny Woodburn is 58. Rock singer Jim Lindberg (Pennywise) is 57.

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On July 27, 1953, the Korean War armistice was signed at Panmunjom, ending three years of fighting.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1789, President George Washington signed a measure establishing the Department of Foreign Affairs, forerunner of the Department of State.

In 1866, Cyrus W. Field finished laying out the first successful underwater telegraph cable between North America and Europe (a previous cable in 1858 burned out after only a few weeks' use).

In 1909, during the first official test of the U.S. Army's first airplane, Orville Wright flew himself and a passenger, Lt. Frank Lahm, above Fort Myer, Virginia, for one hour and 12 minutes.

In 1940, Billboard magazine published its first "music popularity chart" listing best-selling retail records (in first place was "I'll Never Smile Again" recorded by Tommy Dorsey and His Orchestra, with featured vocalist Frank Sinatra).

In 1960, Vice President Richard M. Nixon was nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

In 1967, President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed the Kerner Commission to assess the causes of urban rioting, the same day Black militant H. Rap Brown told a press conference in Washington that violence was "as American as cherry pie."

In 1974, the House Judiciary Committee voted 27-11 to adopt the first of three articles of impeachment against President Richard Nixon, charging he had personally engaged in a course of conduct designed to obstruct justice in the Watergate case.

In 1980, on day 267 of the Iranian hostage crisis, the deposed Shah of Iran died at a military hospital outside Cairo, Egypt, at age 60.

In 1981, 6-year-old Adam Walsh was abducted from a department store in Hollywood, Fla., and was later murdered. (His father, John Walsh, became a well-known crime victims' advocate.)

In 1996, terror struck the Atlanta Olympics as a pipe bomb exploded at Centennial Olympic Park, directly killing one person and injuring 111. (Anti-government extremist Eric Rudolph later pleaded guilty to the bombing, exonerating security guard Richard Jewell, who had been wrongly suspected.)

In 2015, the Boy Scouts of America ended its blanket ban on gay adult leaders while allowing church-sponsored Scout units to maintain the exclusion for religious reasons.

In 2020, the world's biggest COVID-19 vaccine study began with the first of 30,000 planned volunteers helping to test shots created by the National Institutes of Health and Moderna Inc.

Ten years ago: Britain opened its Olympic Games in a celebration of Old England and new, even cheekily featuring a stunt double for Queen Elizabeth II parachuting with James Bond into Olympic Stadium.

Five years ago: New White House communications director Anthony Scaramucci, in an interview published by The New Yorker, attacked chief of staff Reince Priebus and other White House officials in sometimes profane terms. (A day later, President Donald Trump announced that Priebus was being replaced by John Kelly. Scaramucci himself was ousted on July 31.)

One year ago: American gymnast Simone Biles pulled out of the gymnastics team competition at the Tokyo Olympics to focus on her mental well-being, saying she realized following a shaky vault that she wasn't in the right headspace to compete; she was the latest high-profile athlete to discuss mental health struggles. Seventeen-year-old Lydia Jacoby of Alaska won the women's 100-meter breaststroke, upsetting American teammate and defending champion Lilly King. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommended that even vaccinated people return to wearing masks indoors in parts of the U.S. where the delta variant of the coronavirus was fueling infection surges. Robert Aaron Long, accused in eight killings at Atlanta-area massage businesses, pleaded guilty to murder in four of the deaths and was sentenced to life in prison. Actor Bob Odenkirk collapsed on the set of the TV drama "Better Call Saul" in New Mexico; he later announced that he'd had a small heart attack.

The announcement of Molly Dodge's new appointment was one of three made last week by Ivy Tech President Ellspermann for key leadership roles that will impact the college's statewide operations, specifically around workforce development.

role," Dodge said Monday morning. "It has been my honor to serve as chancellor over the past five years. In this role, I have enjoyed serving as the campus champion for partnerships with K14, higher education, employers and other stakeholders. Our campus leads the way statewide in providing students the opportunity to earn college credit, many earning their first year of college or degrees in career pathways while in high school. During my tenure, and in response to the demand locally, our campus has added degrees in education and smart manufacturing and digital Integration; expanded our nursing and health sciences programs; and will soon launch a vet nNursing, the first such degree at Ivy Tech, with assistance from the Regional Development Authority's READI grant. Ivy Tech Madison has leaned into any opportunity to serve Jefferson and Switzerland counties and our students will always make me proud."

Prior to becoming chancellor at Ivy Tech Madison, Dodge served in dual roles as director of adult education and director of the Clearinghouse and special projects at the Madison-based, non-profit River Valley Resources Inc. (RVR). As clearinghouse director, she created a multi-tenant nonprofit center focused on the provision of employment and wrap around services to families living in poverty. In her role as director, Dodge spearheaded a capital campaign to raise $2 million to purchase and renovate a building and recruited tenants and needed services to the facility.

Dodge holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Hanover College, a master's in philanthropic studies and a master's in public administration, nonprofit management concentration, from Indiana University-Purdue University, Indianapolis. Dodge serves as a member of the National Advisory Committee on Rural Health and Human Services. She has been recognized for her professional contributions as a recipient of the Community Partner of the Year Award presented by the Indiana National Association of Social Workers; one of three recipients of the "She Knows Where She is Going" award presented by Girls Inc; and a recipient of the Young Alumni Achievement Award from Hanover College.

The announcement of Dodge's new appointment was one of three made last week by Ivy Tech President Ellspermann for key leadership roles that will impact the college's statewide operations, specifically around workforce development.

"Filling these three positions was critical to ensure Ivy Tech continues our laser focus on workforce development," Ellspermann said. "Ivy Tech's workforce mission has never been more important than it is today as employers are experiencing workforce shortages and we have the opportunity to attract students to programs in high wage, high demand careers which both support Indiana's economy and Hoosier prosperity."

Matthew Connell will serve as the vice president of healthcare, joining Ivy Tech from the State College of Florida where he served as dean of nursing and health professions. Shabbir Qutbuddin now serves as assistant vice president for the School of IT for workforce and careers. He was previously the director of IT sector partnership at Ivy Tech's South Bend-Elkhart campus.

the city. "Everybody kept saying how beautiful it is," Cleaveland said.

Although she does to Madison by herself, she said the biggest difference between her and her three predecessors is they were all talented musically. "I have no musical ability. I know they've had a huge music program here so we're hoping to get some volunteers for that to help fill that void since God did not gift me with those abilities."

Cleaveland noted that Salvation Army leaders are all unique and bring different gifts to the calling. "That's why they move us around because they'll say 'Your gifts and talents are needed here.' " That's the precise reason she was given for her appointment to Madison. "They don't tell me what the process of choosing me to come here was or anything. I know that it's a very prayerful process and they pray about it, and think about it."

Cleaveland said she intends to continue the various ministries the Madison Salvation Army has offered in the past including continuing to provide clothing and furniture vouchers, the dental clinic provided by Dr. Bob Canida, the feeding program (breakfast from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and lunch from noon to 1 p.m.) and the youth program, women's ministries on Tuesdays and worship on Sundays. The Salvation Army also provides a winter warming shelter.

Cleaveland noted the shelter and other services provided by the Salvation Army "are why we do what we do. It gives hope to people who don't have hope," noting that's "part of the mission of the Salvation Army.

"We want to continue doing that. Just because I'm a different leader doesn't mean any of the programs are going to stop," she said, adding it's important that the Salvation Army is providing a need in the community that otherwise would not be met. "We want to do the best we can for those who need to use our services."

Cleaveland said the Salvation Army has many longtime volunteers, even as it continues to seek new volunteers. She will be leaning on those longtime volunteers in executing all of the Salvation Army's local programs. "I'm the rookie and I'll figure it out this year, and help wherever I can."

Cleaveland is looking forward to serving in Madison. "I'm excited for what the future holds, and I don't know what God has for me here in Madison, but I've enjoyed my time so far. The staff is great. The people have been great and welcoming and inviting."

"We just want to do the best job we can do, and help as many people as we can help, and keep providing services that are needed for the community," she said.

Morrison promoted to AD at Madison High School

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

When he was a senior in high school at Madison, Patric Morrison served as an office aide to then-athletic director Ken Brunner. It wasn't the most glamorous of positions — making copies and typing up forms mostly — but there was something about the position that struck Morrison.

"When you're a kid, maybe you want to be an astronaut or pilot or a doctor but I knew at a very early age, probably in second grade, that I wanted to be in education and get into teaching," Morrison said. "When I did my internship with Mr. Brunner I kind of thought, you know, this might be a role that I could fall into someday. Now, did I think I was going to hit it before age 35? No. But I didn't think I'd be a head football coach at the age of 25 either. So we were here."

On Thursday, Morrison was officially hired as the new athletic director for Madison Consolidated Schools, replacing Joe Bronkella who left for the same position at Center Grove High School in Greenwood.

Morrison has been training for the AD position for the past several years. After a successful stint as head football coach at the school, Morrison resigned that position to become assistant AD under Bronkella and served in that role for three years.

When Bronkella announced his resignation right at the end of the school year, Morrison decided to go for the job. Although 20 candidates applied and eight got interviews, Morrison's experience and demeanor pushed him above the rest.

"There were four committees and separate interviews with coaches, parents, administrators, and students involved in the process," said newly-hired Madison Superintendent Dr. Teresa Brown. "This was done so we could understand and include different perspectives in order to be sure we selected the candidate that fits our culture, mission, and goals for the department. This was a new process but proved effective and efficient as the group was able to come together to learn what everyone else valued in the role and who they felt represented Madison and our values best."

David Campbell

Patric Morrison is the new athletic director at Madison Consolidate High School. Morrison spent the last three years as assistant AD at the school.

There may be nobody in the community who has given more to Madison Schools than Morrison. He attended Deputy Elementary School and then was a standout football player at MCHS before heading to Hanover College to play football. After graduating from Hanover with a bachelor's in education, he taught at Canaan School and Madison Junior High School before getting the head coaching job at his alma mater where he also served as a seasonal AD.

"I like to joke that I've never left the four walls of Jefferson County," Morrison said with a laugh. "Madison means a lot to me and my family. This is such a special place and I just want to see it be the best that it can be."

Morrison was the varsity football coach at Madison from 2013-19. During his tenure, he had 23 All-Hoosier Hills Conference players, 49 HHC Academic All-Conference players, two Indiana All-State players, seven Indiana Academic All-State players, two Indianapolis Colts Academic All-State players, and one Indiana Football South All-Star player. He also led Madison to its only winning season in the past 30 years and was named Indiana Football Coaches Association Region 10 Coach of the Week twice.

As assistant athletic director, Morrison was at the forefront of an era that saw massive upgrades in nearly every athletic facility, as well as a much-needed physical-fitness center that coaches had been pleading for for two decades. As athletic director, he plans to continue the progress put in place by Bronkella while adding his own touches.

"I have some ideas of ways to take our current coaching staff and kind of help strengthen them. We offer professional development for coaches but it doesn't always work in everybody's schedule where they can go spend a weekend somewhere. So I'm hoping to bring some professional development type things here," Morrison said. "I've been kind of over the middle school the last three years and one of the things I talk about is bringing the three F's to the schools: The kids should be having fun, they should be learning the fundamentals, and are we getting these kids ready for the future? Because they are a direct feeder system and I want to continue to work on that and strengthen that relationship between our high school and our junior high programs."

Madison will now begin the process of hiring an assistant athletic director to work closely with Morrison. Morrison hopes to have the position filled before the first day of school.

Madison's True falls in playoff in junior event at Sunrise

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Consolidated High School sophomore Landon True finished second in a two-hole playoff at the Indiana PGA Junior Tour event at Sunrise Golf Course on Friday.

True shot a seven-over 79 to tie Joseph Perkins of Freetown for the top spot in the 12-member Boys 13-15 Division. After both golfers carded pars on their first playoff hole, Perkins claimed the title with a par on the second hole.

True was not the only local golfer competing in the event. Madison senior Grace Bronkella shot a 93 to finish third in the Girls 16-19 Division and Shawe senior Eli Turner shot an 89 to place seventh in the Boys 16-19 Division.

Jacob Knapp of Bloomington shot a 79 to win the Boys 16-19 Division while Sophia Curry of North Vernon shot an 89 to win the Girls 16-19 Division. In the Prep Tour event at Sunrise, Lincoln Miller of Montgomery won the Boys 11-12 Division with an 86, Georgia Murnan of Carmel won the Girls 11-12 Division with a 98, and Palmer Neal of Jeffersonville won the Girls 9-10 Division with a 57 on nine holes.

Madison Post 9 sweeps a pair of doubleheaders

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Post 9 baseball wrapped up its American Legion season with a pair of doubleheader sweeps over the weekend.

The two doubleheaders, at Danville on Saturday and at home against Oldham County on Sunday, were supposed to be played last weekend, but the Indiana American Legion moved up the regional tournament one week. Madison lost both of its games in the regional, effectively ending its season, but played the two rescheduled doubleheaders to close out the season.

On Saturday, Madison swept Danville Post 118 11-5 and 13-6.

In the first game, the Niners cranked out 14 hits — four for extra bases — and scored six runs in the top of the seventh to put away the game.

Kaid Fink went 3-for-3 with a triple and two RBIs at the plate and picked up the win on the mound after allowing just one earned run in four hitless innings with three strikeouts.

Colton O'Neal was 2-for-4 with a double, two RBIs and a run scored, Holden Gluba was 2-for-4 with a double and a run, Mitchell Cammack had two hits and two RBIs, Austin Jenkins had two hits and scored a run, Abe Reetz had a triple and an RBI, Jacob Hertz had a hit, an RBI and a run scored, and Philip Kahn had a hit and scored a run.

Madison lashed 15 hits in the game two rout. Reetz was 3-for-3 with a double and three RBIs, Fink was 3-for-3 with an RBI and two runs scored, Gluba was 2-for-3 with a double, three RBIs and a run scored, O'Neal was 2-for-2 with a double and an RBI, Bodie Harsin had a triple, an RBI and two runs, Jenkins had a hit, drove in a run and scored a run, Hertz had a hit and scored twice, and Cammack and Kahn each had a hit and scored a run.

Reetz picked up the win after allowing just three hits in two and two-thirds scoreless innings with five strikeouts.

On Sunday Madison swept Oldham County Junior Legion Post 39 4-3 and 12-2.

Votto belts 3-run HR, Mahle sharp in return as Reds top Cards

CINCINNATI — Joey Votto hit a three-run homer to back Tyler Mahle's sharp return from injury, and the Cincinnati Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 on Sunday.

The last-place Reds overcame Paul Goldschmidt's two opposite-field homers to take two of three in the series. They've won eight of their last 12 games.

The only hits allowed by Mahle in six innings were Goldschmidt's two home runs, giving him four in the series and 24 this season. The slugger launched a two-run drive to right in the fourth and a solo shot in the sixth.

Goldschmidt, who also homered in the All-Star Game on Tuesday at Dodger Stadium, hit at least one in each game of the series. But he won't be available for St. Louis' next game.

Before their finale in Cincinnati, the Cardinals announced that Goldschmidt and star third baseman Nolan Arenado — two of their best players — won't make the trip to Toronto for a short series with the Blue Jays because they haven't received the COVID-19 vaccination.

Backup catcher Austin Romine also will not be going to Canada with the team for games Tuesday and Wednesday. Canada has restrictions on travelers who aren't vaccinated against the coronavirus.

Mahle (4-7) came off the injured list and allowed three runs with three walks and five strikeouts. Mahle hadn't pitched since July 2 due to a right shoulder strain.

Reiver Sanmartin and Alexis Díaz each worked a scoreless inning before Hunter Strickland got three popups for his team-high fifth save. The four pitchers combined to limit St. Louis to three hits.

Tyler Naquin drove in a run with a single in the fourth and got caught in a rundown trying to steal second, allowing Matt Reynolds to scamper home from third for a 6-2 lead.

Elliott given Pocono win after disqualifications

BY DAN GELSTON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONG POND, Pa. — NASCAR stripped Denny Hamlin of his win at Pocono Raceway when his No. 11 Toyota failed inspection and was disqualified, awarding Chase Elliott the Cup Series victory.

Joe Gibbs Racing had Hamlin's car and runner-up Kyle Busch's No. 18 Toyota both disqualified. Hamlin lost his record seventh victory at Pocono and his third win of the season. Busch led a race-high 63 laps.

NASCAR believed the last time it disqualified an apparent winner was April 17, 1960, when Emanuel Zervakis' victory at Wilson Speedway in North Carolina was thrown out because of an oversized fuel tank.

The penalties can be appealed and both Toyotas were sent to NASCAR's research and development center in North Carolina for further evaluation.

"There was some issues discovered that affect aero in the vehicle," NASCAR Cup Series managing director Brad Moran said. "There really was no reason why there was some material that was somewhere it shouldn't have been. And that does basically come down to a DQ."

Moran said the parts in question were the front fascia —essentially the nose cone — and final decisions "should be sorted out by next week."

Elliott, who had finished third, was given his fourth win of the season. He never led a lap in the No. 9 Chevrolet.

Moran said the inspection "rules have tightened up" with the introduction this season of a new car. NASCAR's newest version is pretty much a kit car. Teams get all the same pieces from varying vendors and have detailed instructions regarding how to put it together.

"We don't want to be here talking about this problem," Moran said. "But the teams and the owners and everybody was well aware that this new car was going to be kept with some pretty tight tolerances. There's some areas that all the teams are well aware that we can not go down the path that we had in the past with the other car."

Denny Hamlin, driver of the No. 11 FedEx Office Toyota, Kyle Busch, driver of the No. 18 M&Ms Toyota, Kyle Larson, driver of the No. 5 HendrickCars.com Chevrolet, Chase Elliott, driver of the No. 9 NAPA Auto Parts Chevrolet, and Ryan Blaney, driver of the No. 12 Menards/Duracell Ford, lead the field to start during the NASCAR Cup Series M&M's Fan Appreciation 400 at Pocono Raceway on Sunday in Long Pond, Pennsylvania.

The failures marred what had been a banner day for JGR.

Hamlin had seemingly won for the third time this season and passed Hall of Fame driver Jeff Gordon for most wins at Pocono with seven. Hamlin swept two races at Pocono in his rookie season in 2006, and added wins in 2009, 2010, 2019 and 2020. Now, he remains tied with the four-time NASCAR champion.

Hamlin had plenty to handle from the start, when the pole sitter tagged the wall on the opening lap. He recovered — at 400 miles on the 2 1/2-mile tri-oval there's plenty of racing ahead — then had to watch Busch lead the majority of the race. Oh, then there was this thorny issue of settling a lingering score with Ross Chastain.

Chastain wrecked Hamlin two times in a month earlier this season — Hamlin counted two more times from last season — and was fed-up with the aggressive driving of the watermelon farmer. Hamlin refused to give his rival an inch off a restart at Pocono and forced Chastain into the wall with 16 laps left in the race. Chastain slammed the wall and triggered a wreck that collected several drivers, including winless Kevin Harvick, who is fighting for a playoff spot.

"What did you want me to do? What did you expect me to do," Hamlin asked in the immediate aftermath.

Chastain, who has two wins this season driving for Trackhouse Racing, sheepishly understood comeuppance was due.

"I think that's something that's been owed to me for a few months now," Chastain said.

US women get gold in relay

BY EDDIE PELLS
AP NATIONAL WRITER

EUGENE, Ore. — For the U.S. women's relay team, this was a shock.

For the men — more of the same.

The women pulled a stunner over Jamaica in the 4x100 relay at world championships Saturday, while the favored men finished second after the latest sloppy baton exchange in what has been a ritual since before anyone on this team was born.

Andre De Grasse beat American Marvin Bracy to the line by .07 seconds to lift Canada to the victory in the men's race in 37.48 seconds.

Bracy fell behind in the anchor leg after twice reaching back and whiffing on the exchange from Elijah Hall, who went tumbling to the ground after he finally got the stick into his teammate's hand.

"Not being clean cost us the race," Bracy had posted on Twitter before he'd even made it through the interview area. "No excuses. We let y'all down my apologies."

The U.S. women felt nothing but love. A clear underdog to a Jamaican team that had won all but one of the six sprint medals at this meet, the U.S. pulled the upset when Twanisha Terry held off 200 gold medalist Shericka Jackson for a .04-second victory.

She celebrated by doing her "dirtbike dance," hopping on one foot while revving the handlebars of her pretend, superfast bike.

"I just felt the crowd go crazy. It was very electrifying," Terry said.

The American team, which also included Melissa Jefferson, Abby Steiner and Jenna Prandini, finished in 41.14.

Jamaica's Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce kept her streak alive. She's won gold or silver in every world relay she's been part of, dating to 2007. Nobody on Jamaica came into the relay thinking about second place this year, though.

Jamaica's lineup included all three sprinters from its 100-meter sweep last weekend and both members of the 1-2 finish in the 200. Its fate might have been sealed on a messy first pass between Kemba Nelson and Elaine Thompson-Herah.

"I don't think there's any medal that is designated just for Jamaica," Fraser-Pryce said. "We have to go out there and we have to work like everybody else."

The U.S. men, meanwhile, had taken all six medals in the 100 and 200.

The relays proved, yet again, that pure speed is not all that matters in these races.

"You can have the fastest runner but if there's no chemistry and there's no trust, and the baton isn't moving through the exchange, you aren't going to produce that fast of a time," Terry explained.

Ogunbowale, Wings deal Fever 12th straight defeat

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Arike Ogunbowale scored 16 of her 22 points in the second half and the Dallas Wings handed the Indiana Fever a club-record 12th straight loss, 96-86 on Sunday.

Teaira McCowan finished with 17 points for Dallas (12-15), while Allisha Gray scored 16 with three steals. Kayla Thornton pitched in with 11 points, eight rebounds and five assists.

Gray scored 10 of her 11 first-half points in the second quarter to help Dallas rally from a 23-17 first-period deficit to a 45-39 lead at halftime.

Gray hit a 3-pointer to push the lead to 10 just 1:11 into the third quarter and the Wings stayed in front from there. Dallas improved to .500 on the road with its seventh win.

Kelsey Mitchell led Indiana (5-25) with a season-high 34 points. She added six assists, five rebounds and three steals. Nalyssa Smith added 16 points, while Queen Egbo scored 14. Indiana fell to 3-12 at home.

NCAA charges Tennessee with 18 major violations under Pruitt

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee hopes its "exemplary cooperation" with the NCAA helps the Volunteers avoid serious punishment from 18 major rules violations as easily as they dodged paying former coach Jeremy Pruitt's multi-million dollar buyout.

The NCAA notified Tennessee on Friday of the Level 1 violations, the NCAA's most serious, for allegations of providing impermissible cash, gifts and benefits worth about $60,000 to football recruits and their families under Pruitt. The notice of allegations says at least a dozen members of Pruitt's staff were involved in more than 200 individual violations over a two-year period.

Tennessee has until Oct. 20 to respond, according to the letter it received from the association's enforcement staff.

Pruitt and nine others were fired for cause in January 2021 after Tennessee started an internal investigation following a tip on Nov. 13, 2020, and found what the university chancellor called "serious violations of NCAA rules." The firing negated Pruitt's $12.6 million buyout after he went 16-19 in three seasons.

Chancellor Donde Plowman had said Pruitt was responsible for overseeing the football program. Tennessee also fired two assistants and seven members of the recruiting and support staff. Pruitt, three of his assistants and three other staffers could face show-cause penalties making it difficult for them to get another college job after a hearing is held with the NCAA's Division I Committee on Infractions.

"In every step of this process, we took quick and decisive actions that exemplified the longstanding values of the NCAA reiterated in the membership's new constitution," Plowman said in a statement Friday. "The university hired outside counsel to fully investigate allegations about the football program, acted promptly to terminate the employment of football coaches and staff members, and shared our conclusions with the NCAA enforcement staff."

> "While we will take appropriate responsibility, last fall, the university announced that we will not self-impose penalties that harm innocent student-athletes like postseason bans based upon the actions of coaches and staff who are no longer part of the institution."
> — Donde Plowman
> University of Tennessee chancellor

Pruitt told ESPN he was still reading through the report and seeing a lot of information in the allegations for the first time.

"I'd rather not comment a whole lot past that, other than to say that I'm looking forward to telling my side of the story somewhere down the road," Pruitt said.

NCAA investigators opened a case in December 2020 and became more involved within the two weeks before Pruitt was fired.

The complaint notes how Tennessee handled its investigation "should be the standard for any institutional inquiries into potential violations." The NCAA noted Tennessee immediately mirror-imaged football staffers' cell phones leading to information "that substantiated the violations alleged."

Tennessee wrapped up its investigation last November and announced then it wouldn't self-impose a bowl ban to avoid penalizing current players and coaches. New athletic director Danny White, who replaced the retiring Phillip Fulmer, hired Josh Heupel in late January 2021.

Plowman noted the NCAA enforcement staff recognized the university's "exemplary cooperation" in the case.

"While we will take appropriate responsibility, last fall, the university announced that we will not self-impose penalties that harm innocent student-athletes like postseason bans based upon the actions of coaches and staff who are no longer part of the institution," Plowman said.

Three Level I allegations involve impermissible visits during the COVID-19 recruiting dead period.

On nine separate weekends from July to November 2020, about $12,100 in impermissible recruiting inducements and unofficial visit expenses were provided for six recruits and their families to come to the Knoxville area, according to the complaint.

Among the allegations, on at least 31 occasions from January 2019-March 2021, outside linebackers coach Shelton Felton, inside linebackers coach Brian Niedermeyer, recruiting staff member Bethany Gunn and Pruitt's wife, Casey Pruitt, provided about $16,300 in impermissible benefits to an individual in the form of cash, parking to attend home football games and entertainment expenses to host a recruit's mother.

And on 25 occasions from January 2019-March 2021, Casey Pruitt allegedly provided a total of $12,500 in cash benefits to an individual for monthly car payments.

Pruitt and two recruiting staffers provided or arranged for approximately $11,223 on at least 20 occasions between January 2019-December 2020. That includes $2,443 reimbursed to the assistant director of recruiting using CashApp for costs that covered furniture, household goods or party decorations.

The then-head coach also provided approximately $6,000 in cash toward a down payment toward a new car during an unofficial visit.

White said in a statement that receiving the notice of allegations "was an expected, requisite step in this process — a process our university initiated proactively through decisive and transparent actions. This moves us one step closer to a final resolution.

— The Hanover College Summer Cross Country Racing Series will conclude Wednesday.

Each week, the race distance has increased one kilometer and will end with a 5K race on Wednesday July 27 on Hanover College's nationally renowned cross country course, the site of the 2003, 2008 and 2013 NCAA Division III National Championships.

Cost is $4 and registration begins at 6:15 p.m.

For more information, email Hanover College coach Brady Wells at wellsb@hanover.edu.

— The Hanover Parks Department and Jefferson County Soccer Association is teaming up to offer soccer at Hanover Park this fall for a second year in a row.

Sign-ups for the JCSA-Hanover Fall League are currently underway. JCSA officials will be on-site at Hanover Park at 200 Spruce Lane from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturday, July 30. Cost is $55 and all practices and games take place at Hanover Park.

In 2021 — the first year of this partnership — there were three divisions (U6, U8, U10) with three teams in each. The goal in 2022 is to increase participation numbers through lower roster sizes. This will allow each participant the opportunity to maximize practice and playing time and improve their foot-to-ball skills. Coaches are also needed.

Applications are also available at the Hanover Park Office located in the Community Center at Hanover Park.

For more information, call Brian Sachleben with JCSA at 502-310-8484 and/or Scott Davidson with the Hanover Parks Department at 812-806-1042 or 812-292-4282.

— The Madison Speed Clinic, that was scheduled to be held at Madison Consolidated High School Monday through Wednesday of this week was canceled due to construction at the track.

Dad's obit leaves out an important detail

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: My father recently died.

I am the child of his first wife. He also had a child with his second wife, to whom he was married for 50 years.

My half-brother "Gerald" and I get along fine.

Our father's obituary was written so that it sounded like his second wife was his only wife, with no mention of my mother.

Dad was prominent in his field, and his Wikipedia entry also makes no mention of his marriage to my mother.

My name and my children's names are acknowledged, but the implication is that I am the child of his second wife.

My mom never got over my father's infidelity and desertion. She is hurt that she has been written out like this.

Should I say something to my brother to change this so that my mother is acknowledged in his history? Should obituaries and biographies be truthful about exes?

— Loving, but Sad Daughter

Dear Loving: Many obituaries are actually "death notices," written by family members and/or funeral homes.

Strictly speaking, obituaries are written by journalists and are published in newspapers and magazines. Obituaries attempt to tell the story of a person's life, and yes — they should be factually correct.

Whoever composed your father's Wikipedia page might have used the death notice as a source, incorrectly leaving out your mother's name.

Biographies and Wikipedia entries should be factually correct.

This Wikipedia entry should be revised. You could edit it yourself — and — you should let your brother know that you are concerned that information concerning your father's life is not only incorrect, but also hurtful to you because it erases your mother's identity and creates a false impression regarding your own identity.

Mom's script is now being flipped

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: Our entire childhood, my mom consistently used my own achievements to push my brother to be better.

I was two years younger, a year ahead in school, bolder and more fearless than him in every way.

Mom made it a competition between us to help him overcome his fears. She fueled it until she died.

My brother and I are now in our late 40s.

We are both successful, but have made very different choices.

I turned down lucrative opportunities to prioritize my children over work.

He and his wife did the opposite. They both placed their career first and neglected their child. I ended up taking care of my nephew a lot over the years to make up for it.

These days, my brother takes every opportunity to blast his success to me.

He tells me how much money he makes, how much his wife makes, how much money they have in the bank, etc.

I am trying to be a better person and ignore it, but it is exhausting.

He never asks about my life and what I care about.

I wouldn't trade my life and the strong bond I have with my kids and their son over all the money he has, but how can I change the dynamic?

I know he only brags to me and not to our other brother.

At this point, I am considering cutting him off completely.

Am I overreacting? Why does it bother me so much?

— Annoyed Little Sister

Dear Annoyed: Imagine how it would feel to be told that you are never "enough." This is the script that your mother wrote for your brother.

He is trying to flip that script, and establish that he has finally won your lifelong competition. I suggest that you — the bold and secure one — be brave enough to let him off the hook.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): — You may easily get your point across, but first you must find a way to walk the razor's edge between enthusiasm and pushiness. If you are in too much of a hurry to impress someone, you might become irritating.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): — You have all the right moves but may be tempted to move too quickly — fight the inclination to act on impulse. You might feel especially cool or glam if you are receiving extra attention in your social life or online.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Debates might spark brilliant and clever ideas. Enjoy being with trustworthy friends, planning pleasurable outings and taking a break from dull routines. Don't put all your eggs in one basket on a passing whim.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — It can pay to keep your options open. A better opportunity to make a profit could arrive in a few days. Your business strategies might be more successful if you listen to insightful guidance from a trustworthy mentor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Support a friend on a key issue and earn their trust and appreciation. Jumping on their bandwagon could lead you to learning something that will change your outlook. You can make persuasive presentations or win a debate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — If you pay attention to a partner's astute observations, you should be able to achieve one of your goals. You may meet someone who is sympathetic and generous but who expects to be paid back for their help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Be prepared to test new things and contemplate new ideas. A stroke of genius can put you and a partner on the same wavelength. Put your heads together and make helpful changes that allow you to reap mutual benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — You can earn a place of respect by being reliable and persistent. Other people who are more unpredictable may seem to get all the glory and attention, but your dependability will eventually be recognized for its enduring value.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — You will receive in direct proportion to what you give. Someone could be glad to lend you a helping hand if you have been generous with your money, time and knowledge. Focus on keeping your commitments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Handle probing questions or personal inquiries with appropriate boundaries. Someone may realize you are reliable in an emergency. People can depend on you to remain strong and capable even if you're struggling inside.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Some networking from home may satisfy your need for additional social contact. Share some good new ideas with coworkers or plan an exciting evening adventure with your favorite family members.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): — Friends and loved ones can end up on the sidelines when your schedule is packed with appointments and duties. Let the people you care about know you are thinking about them with a quick text or phone call.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): — Your place in the world depends on your reputation and what people think when they look at you. Your place within yourself is based on how you feel when you look within. Find ways to feed both.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): — It's all about perspective and attitude. You may not be able to change everything that needs changing, but if you change the way you look at things, the things you look at often change. Seek out a more helpful viewpoint.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Solidify and maintain your reputation by being mindful of the promises you make. People will be happy to hear what you say but even happier if you are faithful to commitments. Take time to fully explain your ideas.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Play every game by the book for now. Use practicality as a guide when making purchases instead of making emotional decisions. You may have some doubts or frustrations about a loved one who seems terse or too picky.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — A united front can work wonders. Support your friends, and the good ones will support you in turn. It's too easy to be blind to your assumptions. Analyze and challenge them, and you may learn something that changes your vantage point.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Problems in the world need your urgent help. Join up with others in your workplace or community to make a positive difference — every effort helps. Be warm and friendly to those you connect with.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — You and your loved ones or friends may be eager to enjoy exciting adventures. Something new or unusual may pique your interest. Postpone romantic interludes to spend time exploring new vistas with friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Your own brightness is not diminished just because someone else is in the spotlight. Those who are important in your life appreciate and recognize your persistence and perseverance, whether or not they acknowledge it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Your best asset today is an ability to charm people with a creative turn of phrase and being trustworthy and discreet. Honor your commitments. You will beat the competition and earn credit for being honest and aboveboard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Group gatherings may be enjoyable, although they could drain your resources. Don't let the pressures of your ambition interfere with your personal life now. A loved one could be unpredictable and need some support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — To be sustainable, relationship energies must stay in balance over time. Some friends may be too needy, but others could support you in a heartbeat. By listening to others, you can learn something that can enrich your life.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): — Since the low road always leads into a swamp, always choose to take the high road. Don't waste time on something that has clearly become unproductive. A loved one may tell you what you want to hear.

Touched by Uvalde, Jackson donated to pay for funerals

BY JIM VERTUNO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN, Texas — Former sports superstar Bo Jackson helped pay for the funerals of the 19 children and two teachers killed in the Uvalde school massacre in May, revealing himself as one of the previously anonymous donors who covered costs for families after one of the deadliest classroom shootings in U.S. history.

Jackson, whose rare success in both the NFL and Major League Baseball made him one of the greatest and most marketable athletes of the 1980s and 1990s, told The Associated Press on Wednesday that he felt compelled to support the victims' families after the loss of so many children.

"I don't know if it's because I'm getting old," said Jackson, a father of three and a grandfather as he nears 60. "It's just not right for parents to bury their kids. It's just not right.

"I know every family there probably works their butts off just to do what they do. ... The last thing they needed was to shell out thousands of dollars for something that never should have happened."

Jackson said he felt a personal connection to the city he's driven through many times. Uvalde has been a regular stop for a bite to eat or groceries before a long drive farther west to visit a friend's ranch on hunting trips.

It was his familiarity with the feel of Uvalde's Main Street, leafy town square and the people he'd met on those stops that touched his heart when the news broke on May 24th of the shooting at Robb Elementary. Law enforcement has been heavily criticized for taking more than an hour to enter the classroom where the 18-year-old gunman carried out the attack, and a Texas House investigative report laid blame on the school district, saying a lax safety culture, spotty alert system and unlocked doors also contributed.

Three days later, Jackson and a close friend flew to Uvalde, briefly met with Gov. Greg Abbott and presented a check for $170,000 with an offer to pay for all funeral expenses.

Abbott announced it as an anonymous donation during a May 27 news conference about aid the state was giving victims.

"We didn't want media," he said. "No one knew we were there."

And though Jackson suggested he hasn't kept it a secret, he hadn't spoken publicly about what moved him to make the trip to Uvalde and the donation until this week.

"Uvalde is a town that sticks in your mind. Just the name," Jackson said. "I don't know a soul there. It just touched me."

Jackson declined to name the friend who went with him and also contributed to the donation.

Other fundraising efforts have since raised millions to assist families, and local funeral homes said they wouldn't charge families for services. But Jackson's donation was an early point of light for the grieving families.

Abbott's office said Jackson's money was "quickly directed to cover funeral costs" through OneStar, a nonprofit created to further volunteerism and community service in Texas, including Uvalde relief efforts.

MLB, union have until Monday for draft deal

BY RONALD BLUM
AP BASEBALL WRITER

NEW YORK — Major League Baseball made what was termed a "final offer" for an international draft, increasing proposed money for the first year in 2024 by $10 million on Sunday to $191 million.

The move came one day after the players' association made a proposal that remained at $260 million and left the sides far apart heading into a Monday night midnight EDT deadline for a deal.

Because an international draft was tied in the March lockout settlement to dropping direct draft-pick compensation for qualified free agents, these negotiations will start to determine the market for a free agent group that includes Anthony Rizzo, J.D. Martinez, Chris Sale and Charlie Morton.

While the loss of draft picks hasn't inhibited teams from chasing top free agents since the current system began in 2012 — this year's group includes Aaron Judge, Jacob deGrom and Trea Turner — a slightly lesser level has been impacted. Craig Kimbrel and Dallas Keuchel delayed signing in 2019 until June, after the draft pick compensation no longer was attached.

"We want to do whatever it takes for those guys to make sure they get good deals and get good contracts," New York Mets shortstop Francisco Lindor, part of the union's eight-man executive subcommittee, said Sunday. "But also we want to make sure that the guys that are entering the game, as well, are taken care of, are are put in a good situation in a good spot."

The negotiating moves were disclosed to The Associated Press by two people familiar with the talks who spoke on the condition of anonymity because public comments were not authorized.

MLB proposed last July 28 that a 2024 international draft include spending of $181 million for the top 600 players and $190 million in total, up from $166 million in the 2021 signing period. MLB's proposal contained hard slots, which for 2024 would assign $5,512,500 for the top pick to $2,625,000 for the 10th overall.

Players waited until early this July to make a counteroffer. They proposed a draft be allocated $260 million for the 2024 signing period, with teams having to guarantee slot values while having the flexibility to exceed them within bonus pools, the people said.

The union estimates spending on the amateur draft will be over $300 million by 2024. Players also proposed a deal include a guaranteed number of jobs and signings for international amateurs.

Rose to appear on field for first time since ban

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA — Pete Rose will make an appearance on the field in Philadelphia next month for the first time since receiving a lifetime ban from Major League Baseball.

Rose agreed to the lifetime ban in August 1989 after an investigation for MLB by lawyer John Dowd found Rose placed numerous bets on the Cincinnati Reds to win from 1985-87 while playing for and managing the team.

Baseball's career hits leader will be part of Phillies alumni weekend, and will be introduced on the field alongside many former teammates from the 1980 World Series championship team on Aug. 7.

Larry Bowa, the starting shortstop on the 1980 team, said during Saturday night's television broadcast of the Cubs-Phillies game that Rose, 81, would appear at the event. A Phillies spokesperson confirmed Bowa's statement.

Rose has made appearances for ceremonies in Cincinnati since being banned.

His application for MLB reinstatement was rejected by Commissioner Rob Manfred in 2015. Rose applied again in 2020.

A 17-time All-Star, Rose got 826 of his 4,256 hits during his five years playing for the Phillies from 1979-83.

US women's team has new vibe, work to do before World Cup

BY ANNE M. PETERSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The transformation of the U.S. women's national team has been significant in the year since the Tokyo Games.

The defending World Cup champions have a new look with young talent, and coach Vlatko Andonovski has tweaked the team's traditional straightforward and speedy attack to take a more nuanced approach.

The players say something more is going on as well: there's been a shift in the team's vibe.

The United States is coming off the CONCACAF W Championship, where they secured a spot in the 2023 World Cup and also the 2024 Paris Olympics.

Although they looked somewhat disorganized at the start of the tournament in Monterrey, Mexico, they outscored opponents 13-0 and secured the title with a victory over rival Canada — a team that beat them at the Olympics.

"The vibes with the team are really incredible," midfielder Andi Sullivan said after the team lifted the tournament trophy. "The blend between the senior leaders and the young players, for some it's their first tournament or for some players this is their umpteenth tournament, and I think that blend is incredible. That energy after a long trip, a long tournament, it was one of the most joyous days that we had."

Fellow midfielder Rose Lavelle also ascribed the new mood on the team to the mix of youngsters and veterans.

"This is definitely the hardest qualifying tournament I've been a part of, which is a credit to all the teams. Everyone's getting better and it's getting harder to win," Lavelle said. "So I think it was like a good taste for everyone to have this kind of like high-pressure, high-stakes moment and a good experience for going to the World Cup."

A year ago, the U.S. team was aiming to become the first team to win Olympic gold following a World Cup trophy.

DOUBLEHEADERS

Madison scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth to pull out the win in the opener. Harsin had a double and scored a run, Cammack had a hit and two RBIs, Jenkins and Nolan Vanliew each had a hit and an RBI, and O'Neal, Fink and Storm Poling each added a hit.

Poling worked the final two innings in relief of O'Neal to pick up the win. He allowed one unearned run and no hits while striking out three.

Gluba went 4-for-4 with an RBI and a run scored in the game two win while Vanliew was 2-for-3 with a double, two RBIs and a run. Harsin had two hits and an RBI, Fink had two hits and scored twice, Kahn had two hits, and Poling had a hit scored two runs.

Harsin gave up two earned runs on five hits in three innings to earn the win.

Madison ends the season with a 6-8 record.

DEMAND COMMAND SPLITS FOUR

The Demand Command 17U baseball team split four games in a tournament at Loveland, Ohio, over the weekend.

On Friday, DC lost 5-4 to Midwest Athletics 17U but then beat the Motor City Hit Dogs 7-1. On Saturday, Demand Command defeated Ohio Elite 17U 8-7 but then lost 6-1 to the Toronto Mets Leitch 17U.

In the loss to Midwest Athletics, Madison's Zander Vonch was 2-for-3 with a double, Madison's Craig Demaree had a hit and drove in a run, Southwestern's Jordan DeAtley had a hit and Madison's Liam Murphy scored a run.

In the win over Motor City, DeAtley homered and singled, Murphy had a double and scored a run, Madison's Drew Forner had a hit, an RBI and a run scored, and Demaree drove in two runs.

In the win over Ohio Elite, DeAtley picked up the win on the mound after tossing three scoreless innings with four strikeouts. He also had a triple at the plate.

Forner was 3-for-4 with two runs scored and Demaree had a hit, an RBI and scored two runs.

In the loss to the Toronto Mets, Forner was 2-for-3 while Vonch had a hit. Forner also allowed two runs on three hits in three innings but got a no-decision.

Demand Command is now 18-10-3 on the season.

VOTTO

Reds starter Graham Ashcraft threw a career-high 112 pitches and tied his career high with eight strikeouts over 4 2/3 innings. The rookie right-hander allowed seven hits and four runs with three walks.

Votto followed Tommy Pham's bases-loaded sacrifice fly with his eighth homer of the season and second of the series, a fly ball to left-center that bounced off the yellow padding atop the fence and into the crowd. Votto also hit a solo homer on Friday.

Reds 9, Cardinals 5 (Friday) — Joey Votto, Donovan Solano and Jonathan India homered, Tyler Naquin drove in four runs and the Cincinnati Reds opened the second half of the season with a 9-5 win over the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday night.

Reds catcher Tyler Stephenson suffered a broken right clavicle when he was hit by Goldschmidt's foul tip in the first inning. He exited after being unable to make a throw on Goldschmidt's chopper between the plate and mound.

"I thought the pain would go away, but when I went to throw, I couldn't do it," Stephenson said. "I have to sleep in a chair. I can feel the bones rub together. The good thing is no surgery. It just has to heal right."

The Reds roughed up Adam Wainwright after losing three of their last four games following a season-high, five-game winning streak.

Wainwright (6-8) was tagged for a season-high seven runs in 5 1/3 innings — as many runs as the veteran right-hander allowed in five May starts. He gave up five hits with three walks and two strikeouts while slipping to 0-3 over his last four starts. He hasn't won since June 27.

The Reds led 5-4 in the sixth when Wainwright issued one-out walks to Michael Papierski and Kyle Farmer. Naquin greeted Jordan Hicks with a two-run triple got past diving center fielder and rolled to the wall. Solano followed with a sacrifice fly.

Reds starter Graham Ashcraft threw a career-high 112 pitches and tied his career high with eight strikeouts over 4 2/3 innings. The rookie right-hander allowed seven hits and four runs with three walks.

Reiver Sanmartin (4-4) got the final out of the fifth for the win.

Cardinals 6, Reds 3 (Saturday) — Paul Goldschmidt drove in three runs to reach 1,002 RBIs, combining with Tyler O'Neill to hit consecutive fourth-inning home runs and lead the St. Louis Cardinals over the Cincinnati Reds 6-3 on Saturday night.

Nolan Arenado had three hits, including two of the Cardinals' six doubles. St. Louis tied its season high with eight extra-base hits and won for the sixth time in nine games.

Albert Pujols got two hits, increasing his total to 3,335. He twice narrowly missed homering, flying out to Tommy Pham a step short of the left-field wall and hitting a drive that curved just foul.

Brandon Drury hit a two-run double off the left-center field wall in the third. Jonathan India ran through a stop sign to score from first with a head-irst slide.

Minor gave up five runs, eight hits and four walks. His ERA rose to 6.65.
